tone

How light or dark something is.

3D shape (cone, sphere, cube)

shade

How to control the pencil

That tone can be light, dark and various stages in between.

That a darker tone is used in an area of shadow (where light doesn't reach).

That stippling is dotting the pencil and the more stipples the darker the tone.

That tone can be created in different ways (pressing harder with the pencil, going over shading, adding more hatches)

That hatching is filling in tone by using lines (and that cross hatching is doing this in two different directions)

That varying the tone makes an object look 3D
